Western Railway Rates.

Chicago, May 31.—After waiting all day for the Rock Island and Burlington roads to arrange their differences touching the Atchison ... of $67.50 for the round trip between Denver and Chicago and $47.50 for the round trip from Missouri river points would go into effect last night, as it was generally supposed ... them may be a strong test to the rates, but it is the present intention of the Atchison to keep them in force. The conference between the Rock Island, Burlington and Atchison roads did not meet Tuesday as was intended, and the officials of those roads declared that they were waiting to see what the Atchison would do. Everything to be put in by the Atchison tomorrow will have a tendency to knock the top and bottom off the World's Fair rates from all over the west. ... is considerable fear that the roads will establish a system of thirty day or sixty day tickets which will be sold at reduced rates while the regular rates will be left untouched. In this way, it is argued, the roads argue, the demand for cheaper transportation to the East can be met and at the same time the probability of lower rates being made permanent after the close of the Fair can be avoided. It is not so much the question of rates to the Fair which is troubling the western roads as it is the question of rates after the Fair. Once the regular rates are materially lowered it will be a hard matter to elevate them again. That the roads fully realize and it is this which keeps them on the fence so long.

The Drain of Gold.

New York, May 31.—The drain of gold from the United States treasury is going on fast and furious. A Boy's Idea of His Native Town.

I once knew quite a number of queer things about myself, when I was a country youth in general. I always considered myself a very important boy, and would go to almost any other town and brag about my native village. I thought it was the right of every boy to do so. I remember with a few ... I ... my native town ... I planned that I would ... from the depot to the ... some time, and ... I ... and, of course, the street car line would give the town a metropolitan air. Now this is the queer fact I wanted to get at. I never really desired to make my native town a city. It was because I wanted to see that the little town must always remain little, because there was no large river, lake or a navigable body of water. ...

But in my town there were men who had studied some theoretical teaching, who had never been able to out-grow this idea, and so Menominee, Wis., has a street car line that reaches a mile from a factory to a home, the residence of a man, who, though successful, is still a boyish thought. He felt that if he had a street car line he would make Menominee metropolitan, and he never got over the thought. So the car line is there with one little dinky street car and a donkey—but no one ever rides on it or cares to ride on it. The owner must be ashamed of it now, but it would be more mortifying to him to tear it up and abandon it because of the old acquaintances ... home I have seen any number of towns just like Menominee with just such men. —Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What Watering Stock Means.

"I wonder how many of the people who dabble in Wall street fluctuations know how the term 'watering stock' originated," said a New Yorker last night. "Old Daniel Drew, who was one of the most daring and unscrupulous operators that ever lived and who made and lost more money than any man who ever dealt in stocks in Wall street, or anywhere else for that matter, was a drover up in Putnam county, N. Y., for years before he ever knew what a railroad share was, and he was a middle aged man before he ever bought or sold one. Dan Drew was as tricky when dealing in live stock as he was later when his business embraced the other variety.

"When he was about to dispose of a herd of cattle, he kept them away from anything in the shape of salt for 24 hours before the sale, at the same time occasionally and mixed salt with their feed. Just before they were to be weighed he would let them have free access to Croton creek, and the way they would drink would be a caution. They would store away water until their sides were distended, and when they got on the scales they weighed heavy, you may rest assured. When Drew went into the street, he would inflate the stock of any railroads he might get control of by increasing it beyond all rules of right or justice, and one day, when some one spoke to him about it being reprehensible, old Dan merely winked and remarked that there couldn't be any harm in merely 'watering stock.' He was a marvelous man. At one time he was worth $85,000,000, and yet he died poor."—Washington News.

The Jury Objection to Democracy.

Whether we seek statesmen or generals or bishops or managers of great concerns, we all in practice insist on evidences of capacity which cannot be given by the very young. We see no foolishness in applying the same principle to electors, who are now the masters of the world, and there is certainly no unfairness in it nor any affront to that quality so valued on the continent—the "dignity of the human being." We write without keeping any thought in reserve. We doubt democracy, it is true, as ... the wise shall rule the foolish, but we are quite aware that the experiment must be tried and cordially wish that, when tried, it should succeed. It will succeed all the better if we do not rush away with the idea that, as all are to be equal, none need to be subjected to any test.

The new device leaves all Belgians as equal in regard to voting as it is possible for a people to be and only extends the principle that the experienced shall have more power than the very young. Nature gave them that, before M. Nyssen, and in registering the fact in their constitution the Belgians are not departing from the most rigid logic. We should not at all wonder if their idea proved fruitful and suggested to much greater states a mode in which absolute ... of rights could be made compatible with additional power to be reserved to the experienced and responsible.—London Spectator.

THE PROVIDENT LIFE AND TRUST COMPANY

OF PHILADELPHIA

In form of policy; prompt settlement of death losses; equitable dealings with policy holders, in strength of organization, and in everything which contributes to the security and cheapness of life insurance, this company stands unrivaled.

A man aged 35 can take out a 10-year-term policy which in the event of his death within 10 years will insure the payment to his wife or other beneficiary of 20 annual payments aggregating $20,000. Such a policy would only cost during the 10 years a probable average net premium of $163.33 a year.

COLORADO CHAUTAUQUA.

The Rocky Mountain Sunday School Times for May 24 contains the detailed programme of the Chautauqua assembly to be held at Glen Park in this county during the months of July and August. The sessions will begin on July 19th, with an address by Rev. A. A. Cameron, D.D., and will conclude on August 9th. The departments include the Bible Normal, Practical Sunday School Normal, Kindergarten Normal, Scientific, Art, Elocution and Physical Culture, Languages, Music, and Oratory.

August 2d is to be observed as Recognition Day, for the purpose of forming a State Chautauqua organization, with the object of extending the Chautauqua work throughout Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona, which form the territory of the Rocky Mountain assembly. There are now about forty local circles in this district, and a considerable increase in the near future is confidently expected.

Among the lecturers who have been secured for the session are Dr. Ellis, president of the State Agricultural college; Dr. Snyder, president of the State Normal School; Dr. Hyde, professor of Greek and Hebrew in the Denver University; Mr. John Brisben Walker, editor of The Cosmopolitan, and Professor J. M. Dickey of Colorado Springs.

PENSION AGITATION.

In his Memorial Day address at Indianapolis, Governor McKinley said:

"These volunteers did not enter the service with the hope of spoils, with the hope of patronage, with the expectation of winning fame and applause or with the hope of getting pensioned off by the nation for which they fought. No, they entered the service with the thought of preserving the sacredness and unity of this nation to mankind. There is a sentiment abroad in this land that that glorious army was gotten together and equipped for the sole purpose of securing pensions. I have no patience with that sentiment."

It is difficult to believe that any such sentiment is held by Americans. A man must be woefully ignorant and stupid to imagine that the veterans of the war exposed their lives either for the small wages they received or for the doubtful chance of future pensions. There are many people who believe that many persons are receiving pensions who are not entitled to them, and this opinion, whether it be right or wrong, has been strengthened by the pension attorneys who have gained millions of dollars in working up and establishing pension claims, and also by certain mistaken veterans who have shown an indiscreet petulance at every suggestion of the possibility of unjust pensioning.

Just at the present time the matter is prominently before the public both on account of the policy of the Democratic administration, and also because of the expulsion from the Grand Army of the Republic of a New York post for the adoption of resolutions in favor of pension reform. In so far as these resolution were contrary in form or in the method of their adoption or circulation to the established rules of the order, the Grand Army had a perfect right of discipline, but in the resolutions themselves it is difficult to find anything very objectionable. The resolutions read:

Whereas, The only veterans entitled to pensions are those who by wounds or disabilities incurred in the service of their country are prevented from earning a living in their respective callings, as they might have done had such wounds or disabilities not been received, and whose circumstances are such as to justify them in calling on the country for aid or support, and

Whereas, The Grand Army of the Republic is an association organized for the purpose of enabling old soldiers and sailors to take care of themselves and each other, and

Whereas, As much real patriotism may be shown by refraining in time of peace from inflicting unnecessary burdens on the country as by rushing to her defense in time of war; therefore, be it

Resolved, That any old soldier who applies for or accepts a pension, except under the conditions above set forth, is in the opinion of this post, guilty of conduct calculated to injure the good will we feel and are willing to give their lives for their country without any reward save the approval of their own conscience and that honorable fame that is due to every patriot.

So far as the old soldiers are concerned the public shares the opinion of Governor McKinley that "no reputable member of the Grand Army of the Republic in this broad land entered the army with the hope of pension or spoils," but the public feels certain that too large a part of the money paid out by the government has gone to the attorneys and claim agents, and it sees no good reason why the pension lists should not be examined to see whether they contain names that should not be found. They should not be dropped.

THE NEW EMPIRE.

Some few years ago when the Denver and Rio Grande and Colorado Midland railroads were opening up the valley of the Grand and its tributaries, at the hot springs of Glenwood there sprang into frequent use the expression, "The New Empire" as referring to Garfield county, and its immediate surroundings. No one could doubt that country at that time without being amazed at the wonderful variety and richness of its resources and entirely lost over the possibilities which seemed in store for it. The few years which have since elapsed have not been many years, but they have been busy ones. Like all new countries the Grand river valley has suffered from scarcity of money, from uncertain markets, and from dull times in the towns, but all through the county there has been a growth, a movement of real life, subduing the lands, building ditches, erecting houses, constructing fences, making homes, and the tribute from a hundred country precincts has awakened the cities into renewed life.

It has been the pleasant task of The Glenwood Springs Avalanche-Echo, in a special edition just issued, to present to the public an account of these achievements. The number is itself a remarkable one, consisting of fourteen handsomely illustrated pages, printed on smooth paper, and without any display advertising. The growth of the towns, Glenwood Springs, New Castle, Iade, Carbondale, Marble and Parachute is well set forth, and due attention is given to the mines, ranches and natural attractions of the county. In addition to views of places and buildings the illustrations include many of the pioneers and others who have contributed to the development of the county. Among the latter is a portrait of Mr. H. W. Hallett, who is well known in this city. A defect in the paper is that these portraits do not include one of Mr. Holmes, the Avalanche editor, who has for years been doing all that a newspaper can do to advance the interests of that region.

Altogether this special edition is a very creditable one, and displays much enterprise. It can hardly fail to accomplish much good in the way which was intended by its promoters.

EUROPEAN POLITICS.

Some dispatches recently received from Germany put a much graver aspect on the interior politics of that country than the view which generally prevails in this country. The advices of the New York Herald are usually reliable, and according to these the Emperor is likely in case of the election of a Reichstag unfavorable to his pet army bill, to seek an entanglement in foreign affairs which will force the adoption of the proposed addition to the army. These advices agree with the expressed opinion that the Socialists will make marked gains in the coming elections and are even disposed to predict greater successes to this party than have hitherto been supposed to be reasonable.

Germany is not the only European country which is having a lively time politically. The debate over the Home Rule bill in England continues, and its outcome is wholly a matter of conjecture. In France the approach of a general election begins to engross the attention of politicians. It is at least certain that a large number of the present Deputies will not be returned, and while the stability of the Republic is not immediately threatened, it seems to be quite impossible to find a prime minister who possesses the confidence of the country and a sufficient amount of ability and firmness to carry through a consistent and wise governmental policy. The political situation in France therefore involves only questions of minor importance. In Italy the chief troubles are financial ones, caused by the bankrupt treasury and by the enormous frauds which have been unearthed in connection with the Banca Romana. For many years past, the country has been spending far more than it received, and it has been only a question of time when its credit and resources would be exhausted. The crisis has been hastened by the discovery of stealings and bribery on an immense scale, and the highest officials of the government are sufficiently connected therewith to prevent the punishment of the guilty and reform measures.

In the way of international complications the only new thing seems to be a growing irritation on the part of France towards Great Britain. It is claimed that both in Asia and Africa England is not content with seizing the best parts of the earth for her own colonies, but interferes with the colonial aspirations of other nations, and that she has furnished Siamese and Madagascans with arms and ammunition for use against the French. It may be, however, that in these cases England is blamed for the acts of individuals who have done no more than any enterprising merchants would do, and in any event a serious quarrel between France and England is so remote a possibility that the matter is of no great importance.

One of the most interesting of the visitors to the Columbian Exposition will be a viking ship, constructed on the model of those in which the Norsemen of old swept along the coasts of Europe, carrying panic and devastation wherever they touched the shore. The boat has already safely accomplished its passage across the Atlantic, and in so doing has, it is said, added to the probability of the story that in the latter part of the tenth century the Norwegians discovered the American continent. But the voyage of Eric the Red to Greenland in 985, of young Bjorni to Vinland in 986 and of Leif Erikson in Bjorne's ship also to Vinland soon after are too well authenticated to gain additional strength from the demonstration that modern sailors can traverse the Atlantic in a ship built on the Viking model. But even the less the strange looking visitor from Norway will be a welcome addition to the Fair, and will attract much attention from visitors.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the race meeting which is to be held at Alamosa under the auspices of the Alamosa and San Luis Valley Fair association on July 3 and 4. One thousand dollars in purses are offered for trotting, running and cowboy races, and the occasion promises to be a success. Further information may be obtained from H. W. Hamilton, secretary, of Alamosa.

America would be very glad to welcome the German Emperor to the Chicago Exposition. It would certainly be a good thing for the Fair, and in return for the benefits which he conferred the Emperor might very likely pick up some new ideas and facts which would be of considerable use to him.

The Country Club races on Decoration Day were the most successful ever given in this county. The efforts of the Club toward the encouragement of athletic sports merit public recognition. Such sports are a benefit not only to those immediately concerned, but also to the community.

THE SUICIDE MANIA.

Coroners Inquests Show Doctors Are Most Susceptible to It.

Suicide is largely increasing to physicians not only as they study it in its professional aspects and psychological bearings, but from the fact that, according to recent statistics, professional physicians there are other classes of men due by their own hands, lawyers coming next, and the liberal professions as a whole furnishing more than all other classes. Various causes have been suggested to account for this seemingly abnormal development of the suicidal tendency among doctors. Some ascribe it to overcrowding and the struggle for sufficient work to live, while others with a way as to make existence invitingly while others with a way as to make existence invitingly while others with a way as to make existence invitingly

Broadmoor Casino Orchestra.

The Broadmoor Casino orchestra under the direction of Professor Nahan Franko, will give their opening concert at the opera house on Friday evening, June 9. The orchestra is made up of the following well known musicians: Nahan Franko, soloist and director, late concert master of Art. Seidl's and Theodore Thomas's orchestras; Richard Fourth first violinist of the Boston Symphony orchestra; Louis Nowery, graduate of Royal High School of Music Berlin; Peter Alferis, of Theodore Thomas orchestra and New York Philharmonic Society orchestra; Paul Miersch, of New York Philharmonic club; William Augermunde, of the New York club; William Schade, of Damrosch's New York Symphony orchestra; Fred Hackert, of National Conservatory orchestra; Louis Rioegler, of Damrosch's New York Symphony orchestra; Emil Scholz, of Boston Symphony orchestra, and Jacques Froellger, solo pianist.

Early yesterday morning the German and Austrian editors who have been visiting the city were taken for a drive to Cheyenne canon and the Casino. They were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce. The party left the hotel at 6:30 a. m. and after driving part way up the North canon and, to the Seven Falls in the South canon returned to the city over the Broadmoor chutes. The trip was taken at that hour because they left for the West at a later hour. Every member of the party expressed himself delighted with the visit in this vicinity.

Artist Mellen yesterday photographed the Pike's Peak range ... Views were taken from the tower east of the city. Negatives of two sizes were taken, each in five sections. When complete one of the pictures will be 7x12 inches and the other 10x16 inches. As soon as the result of the photographing is assured the tower will be taken down and removed to Broadmoor, where similar pictures are to be made of the grounds for the company.

Sixty students of Leland Stanford university spent Monday night in this city en route to the World's Fair. They left early the next morning in their special train. Traveling Passenger Agent Nolan of the Southern Pacific, who brought the party through, says that in September he will bring an excursion of Grand Army men here, the largest that ever came from California.

Two members of the Adams Hose company called at The Gazette office last evening to state that during a practice run Tuesday they had ... to open a fire plug which had been placed nine months ago. They found no water and came to the conclusion that it had not been turned on when the plug was put in.

The bicycle and horse races at Broadmoor occur on the 17th. Several of the Hose companies are in active preparation for the races. Last night the France and Ferris teams were out in front of the city hall practising and the College team runs every night. Some good sport is assured.

Mr. Chas. F. Meserve, Superintendent of the Haskell Indian Institute at Lawrence, Kas., was in the city yesterday with visitors. They were accompanied by several of the Indian pupils, who showed much interest in the scenery hereabouts.

Mr. J. E. Smithford and wife arrived yesterday from Santa Clara, Cal., and are the guests of their brother, Mr. W. F. Warren. A brother of Mr. Warren also arrived from Montana yesterday. They are all going to the Fair and will have a family reunion there this month.

Miss Ida Young, who has been assisting her brother in-law, Mr. J. K. Miller, in the Pharmacist office for several months past, will leave for her home in Hamilton, Ohio, today.

Reduced Prices!
I have agents in the Navajo and Ute countries who buy Indian curios for me. I have just heard from them that they are getting me a nice line of goods at lower prices than they have been able to before, and in order not to become overstocked I have reduced the prices of all the Indian goods in my store. I offer Navajo blankets at from $3.50 to $50 each, Chimolla and Mexican blankets at $12 to $15, Mexican hair riding whips at $1.50, large Apache war clubs at $1, and all other goods in proportion. These curios are fine ornaments for halls, libraries and dining rooms.
I carry a full line of hammocks, base balls, ball bats, letter files, blank books, desk furniture, writing furniture, writing paper, bound books, paper books, views of Rocky Mountain scenery, pens, inks, periodicals, and everything kept in a first class store of the kind. The prices are right. Come in and look over the goods.
